REASONS FOR ALLOWANCE

1. The following is an examiner's statement of reasons for allowance: The documents submitted by Applicant do not appear to read on Applicant's claims. An updated search provides no relevant, new art.
2. Wittosch et al. (US 6548120) disclose a cellulose-based substrate coated with a water-based dispersion of ethylene-vinyl acetate (col 3 In 5-9). The teaching is general and does not discuss the crystallinity of the coating. Wittosch et al. also teach the use of a commercially available ethylene-vinyl acetate emulsion, Airflex ® 100 HS by Air Products, in Example 3. Applicant mentions said commercial product on p22 of his disclosure. Airflex ® 100 HS VAE polymer has a dissimilar glass transition temperature ($T_g=7^{\circ}\text{C}$) compared to examples of Applicant's invention. Therefore, the examiner takes the position it would be unreasonable to assert that said commercial product inherently has a crystalline melting point within the range claimed by Applicant because of the dissimilar transition temperature.
3. Shengkang et al. (CN 1205341) does not appear to teach toward an ethylene-vinyl acetate polymer for use on a cellulose-based substrate.
4. Denki Kagaku Kogyo K.K. (JP 4933353) discloses an ethylene-vinyl acetate emulsion suitable for use on a cellulose-based substrate. The method of making said emulsion differs from Applicant's method. Specifically, the vinyl acetate is not added slowly over time as Applicant recommends. Thus, it appears that such an emulsion would not have the crystalline structure, and therefore crystalline melting point, described by Applicant.

Any comments considered necessary by applicant must be submitted no later than the payment of the issue fee and, to avoid processing delays, should preferably accompany the issue fee. Such submissions should be clearly labeled "Comments on Statement of Reasons for Allowance."

Any inquiry concerning this communication or earlier communications from the examiner should be directed to John Freeman whose telephone number is (571)270-3469. The examiner can normally be reached on Monday-Friday 7:30-5:00PM EST (First Friday off).
